

Arbitrator Charlene MacMillan brings more than three decades of labor relations experience and leadership to her work as an arbitrator, having served as advisor, advocate, and chief negotiator in the private and public sectors. She is trained and certified in arbitration; in contract, labor & employment law; and in mediation; and is skilled in interpretation, negotiation and administration of collective bargaining agreements. Arbitrator MacMillan applies her deep understanding of the dynamics of collective bargaining, and of labor & employment relations, when deciding matters brought to arbitration. She has earned the trust of both labor and management for her integrity, fairness, competence, and professionalism.

A member of the National Academy of Arbitrators (NAA), Arbitrator MacMillan also performs academic peer review in matters of domestic and international labor-management relations, human resources, and dispute resolution. She continues to develop and deliver training for management and labor advocates alongside her arbitration practice.
